

CENTRAL OHIO

STORIES BY RICH WARREN

Columbus writer Rich Warren loves nothing more than pointing his car down Ohio's country byways or urban thoroughfares to discover the quirky and offbeat experiences that await around every corner.

This map is for reference only. For detailed routes, see the pull-out map in the front of the guide or you may view or order the official Ohio Department of Transportation (Highway) Map at transportation.ohio.gov/maps.

one region, four ways to play

families

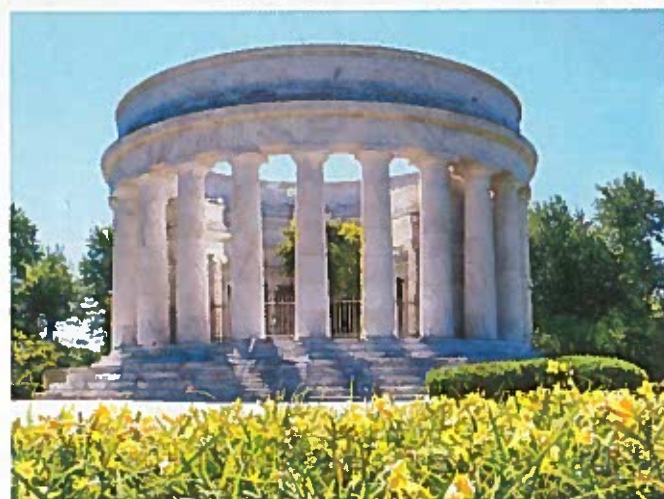

Splash away at Zoombezi Bay, a popular water park adjacent to the Columbus Zoo and Aquarium in Powell. Get your heart pumping by racing down SoundSurfer, the nation's first water slide with built-in light shows and a personalized sound system.

Be awed by Cathedral Hall at the millions-of-years-old Olentangy Indian Caverns in Delaware. Descend 105 feet along the passages, miles of which have never been explored.

Lead your excited youngster down the garden path — literally — when Franklin Park Conservatory and Botanical Gardens' Children's Garden opens in May. With interactive areas designed to encourage budding green thumbs and stoke curiosity in nature, your little one is sure to be blooming with excitement.

Experience a work of art in a new way at the Topiary Park in Columbus. BELOW: Stand in awe at the impressive Harding Memorial in Marion.

Get a sense of how Ohio's first residents lived. The ancient Hopewell culture held ceremonies at Newark Earthworks' Great Circle and the Octagon. You can't help but feel a sense of reverence, just one of the reasons these earthworks are being considered as an UNESCO Heritage site.

Walk into a painting at the Topiary Park in Columbus where 54 figures, eight boats and three dogs whimsically re-create Georges Seurat's "A Sunday Afternoon on the Isle of La Grande Jatte."

culture buffs

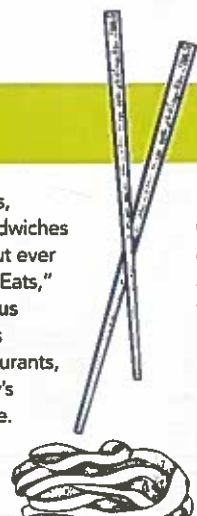

Pay homage to Ohio's history as the home of eight U.S. presidents at Harding Memorial in Marion. This towering monument resembling a Greek temple is the burial site for President Warren G. Harding and his wife, Florence. It's as if the architectural grandeur found in Washington, D.C., were transported here to Harding's home town.

► Scotland's uber-popular BrewDog (LEFT) opened its first U.S. brewery last year in Canal Winchester and is quickly making it a destination of choice for all beer lovers. Pick from its huge beer selection and feast on comfort food. Coming in 2018 are a hotel and dog park.

► Savor Mexican pastries, Vietnamese banh mi sandwiches and Somali tea, without ever leaving the country. "Alt Eats," just one tour by Columbus Food Adventures, offers nibbles from ethnic restaurants, introducing each country's culture through its cuisine.

► Bring your cooler to The Cheese House in Plain City. Taste dozens of Ohio-made cheeses available at this roadside market that's easy to spot with its Swiss chalet exterior. Expect homemade goodness that's irresistible, along with baked goods and handcrafted fudge and ice cream.

Adventure seekers

Get your adrenaline racing at one of the nation's top urban rock climbing sites. At 35-feet tall, the climbing wall at Scioto Audubon Metro Park in Columbus overlooks the downtown skyline and is the largest free outdoor climbing wall in the country.

Take a relaxing boat ride and enjoy the serene setting at Buckeye Lake. Powerboating, water skiing and jet skiing have also returned now that remediation of the lake's dam is underway. Bring your boat and make new friends at restaurants along the shore.

Get behind the wheel and learn to race at Mid-Ohio Sports Car Course near Lexington. Join racing fans from across the nation May 4-6 when the storied WeatherTech SportsCar Championship will be held at Mid-Ohio for the first time. Expect your heart to be racing, along with the cars!

Even novice climbers can enjoy prime views of downtown atop the climbing wall at Scioto Audubon Metro Park.

trail BLAZERS

Sip on the region's best brews on the Columbus Ale Trail, including RAM Restaurant & Brewery.

Central Ohio is home to dynamic coffee, craft beer and shopping scenes. Follow three different trails that guide visitors to the best places to find them.

Sip on lattes and pour overs along the Columbus Coffee Experience, with stops at more than 20 shops offering everything from cortados to cappuccinos, using beans as exotic as Kenya Windrush or Brazil Ipanema. Get tips from the baristas to use at home as you savor each cup.

The city's craft brew scene is exploding. Of the more than 40 breweries featured on the Columbus Ale Trail, more than half have opened in the last five years. Imbibe by the growler or the pint, enjoying live music,

Be sure to get stamps on specially provided passports to be traded in for everything from T-shirts to tasting glasses. Happy trails to you!

outdoor patios and everything from pizza to pinball at places as hopping as their brews.

Meet the area's creative types on the Made in CBUS Trail showcasing locally owned businesses ranging from makers of spirits to wearable art. This trail is the ultimate way to buy local.

Save THE DATE

Mark your calendar for these events. Get more ideas on ohio.org or by ordering the Ohio Calendar of Events.

May

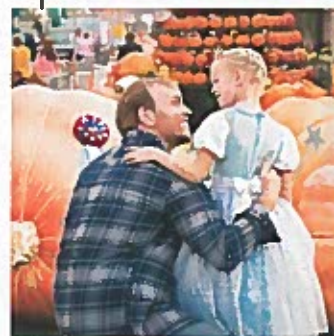

Experience an old-time ice cream social on a grand scale at the Utica Sertoma Ice Cream Festival, May 26-28. This event features a classic car show and, best of all, 15 decadent flavors of Velvet Ice Cream.

June

Meet the artists and be wowed by their creativity at the Columbus Arts Festival, June 8-10. Hundreds of artist booths will line the downtown riverfront, transforming it into an outdoor art gallery.

August

The Dublin Irish Festival, Aug. 3-5, bills itself as the largest three-day festival of its kind. With seven stages of world-class Irish musicians, Celtic dancing and plenty of Irish beer, it truly is the ultimate Irish experience.

October

Marvel at pumpkins bigger than you at the Circleville Pumpkin Show (ABOVE), one of Ohio's oldest and most popular festivals. From Oct. 17-20 you can sink your teeth into all things pumpkin, even a pumpkin burger.

RAM RESTAURANT & BREWERY: LEV ELY; COLUMBUS ALE TRAIL AND COLUMBUS COFFEE EXPERIENCE: BOBOLITY; LEV ELY; CIRCLEVILLE PUMPKIN SHOW: SAM KENDALL

CAN'T-MISS MUSIC FESTS

Get rocking at Rock on the Range, set for May 18-20 at Columbus' MAPFRE Stadium featuring 50-plus bands playing hard, alternative and punk rock as well as heavy metal.

Revel in the variety of the Lancaster Festival, an 11-day extravaganza set for July 18-28 with more than 60 mostly free events, featuring everything from funky Dixieland to reggae and classical string quartets.

Columbus' riverfront heats up July 20-22 along with the grills at the Jazz & Rib Fest. Kick back to the sounds of dozens of regionally and internationally renowned musicians on three stages, while savoring sizzling ribs from barbecue pit masters.

Musicians at the relaxing Covered Bridge Bluegrass Festival play everything from bluegrass to "newgrass" with an authentic covered bridge — one of five in Union County — as a backdrop Sept. 21-23. Find the fun at Pottersburg Bridge near North Lewisburg.

ROCK ON THE RANGE: MIKE BAX / PINEGRAVIAUDIO.COM

Roop Brothers Bar, Delaware: "Roop's," as the locals lovingly call it, has been packing them in for decades. As a sign by the door attests, "We're Serious About Music." It's posted alongside photos of former owners Al and Ed Roop with the likes of Smokey Robinson, Bo Diddley and Sheena Easton. Current owner, Josh Moore, follows in the Roops' footsteps, bringing rock and blues bands from around the country on weekends, with karaoke and an open mic night through the week.

EXPRESS LIVE!, Columbus: Don't let rain scare you away from concerts at this downtown Columbus venue. The stage can simply pivot so the show is indoors instead of outside. Come for a packed schedule of nationally known acts. Papa Boo's, Buckeye Lake: There's good reason Papa Boo's is also known as "The Lake Place" — its stage is right on the water. There are even docks available, making it simple for boaters to step off, grab some brews and bites, and listen to tunes from mostly Ohio-based rock, country and blues bands — all while enjoying tranquil breezes off the lake.

RETAIL THERAPY

Spend a day exploring the shops in these charming towns.

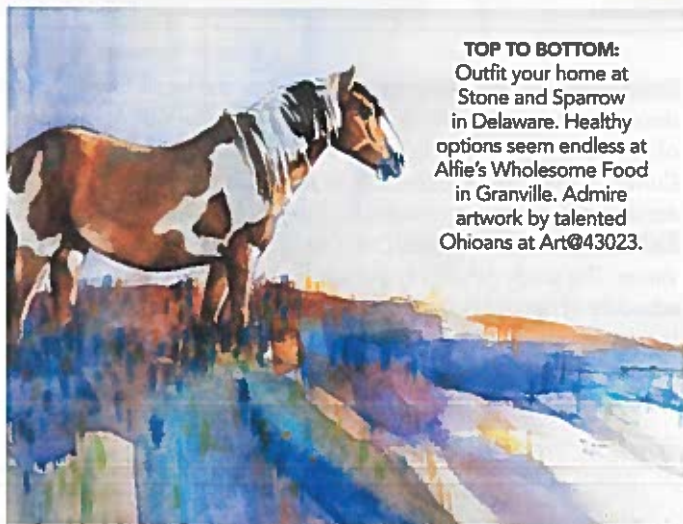

Recharge with a stop at Restoration Brew Worx where you can pair a pint (or two!) of Worx-Toberfest with its garlic Parmesan chicken wings.

Delaware

Find quintessential Americana in downtown Delaware. Old-time antique stores stand side-by-side with chic bistros and hip boutiques in the 19th-century storefronts lining Sandusky Street, downtown's main drag. Decorations of days gone by add character, like the barber shop complete with a barber pole.

Stop in Stone and Sparrow for cozy home décor items and trendy women's apparel. Take an artist-led workshop at Honey and Abernathy, a boutique whose "Harvested and Home Spun" wares include honey products. Refuel at Delaware's microbreweries, Staas Brewing Company that specializes in Belgian styles and Restoration Brew Worx, with a full menu and several styles on tap.

TOP TO BOTTOM: Outfit your home at Stone and Sparrow in Delaware. Healthy options seem endless at Alfie's Wholesome Food in Granville. Admire artwork by talented Ohioans at Art@43023.

Granville

Stroll the wide, inviting sidewalks of downtown Granville, meeting the shopkeepers along the way. Talk with area artists at Art@43023, a gallery featuring the work of Ohio artists, many from Granville. Farther down Broadway, the town's main street, The James Store carries an ever-changing array of fashionable clothing and accessories for women.

Nearby, drop in at Alfie's Wholesome Food where the sandwiches and pastries are all natural and made from scratch for guilt-free indulging. Or grab lunch at the recently renovated Buxton Inn, a former stagecoach stop in operation since 1812. Then, keep sauntering through other boutiques and an independent bookstore. You won't be the first person to find this town almost impossibly charming.

Made in Ohio

Special souvenirs to take back home.

1 art you can eat

Chocolatier Michael Gillam from Bexley takes Belgian chocolate, molds it in unusual shapes (even spirals!), stuffs it with innovative made-from-scratch fillings like ghost chili caramel, then splatters vibrant colors on it by hand. Voilà! A work of art your sweet tooth will thank you for. michaelsartisanchocolates.com

2 beer bath

Who knew beer could help make your skin silky soft? It can when it's made by Glenn Avenue Soap Company in Columbus. Suds up with handcrafted soap using beer from a half dozen or so Columbus craft breweries, along with pure essential oils and organic ingredients. glennavesoap.com

3 pop of flavor

Enjoy a handful of K's Kernels popcorn flavor, Birthday Cake, that Gahanna creator Karen Smith describes as "a party in your mouth." Her other unusual flavors include cilantro lime, dill pickle, sriracha spice, peanut butter and snickerdoodle kettle corn. ks-kernels.com

4 pocket money

Downsizing has never been more fun with this mini wallet that packs a ton of style and two to 10 cards. Avid biker Paul Westrick designed the zerOz wallet to avoid carrying a regular-sized wallet. The Columbus-based shop has updated his design to an endless array of colors that make a fashion statement when you're at the cash register. zeroz.com

5 woven wonders

Wear a work of art! Mikelle Hickman-Romine's one-of-a-kind handcrafted earrings and necklaces are made with a combination of hand-sewn beadwork and wire sculpture often accented with vintage glass, pearls, rubies, turquoise or aquamarine. mikelle.net

SET YOUR TABLE

Take home these tasty memories of Central Ohio.

- 1 CaJohn's Fiery Foods
- 2 Rockmill Brewery
- 3 Watershed Distillery
- 4 Krema Nut Company
- 5 Jeni's Splendid Ice Creams

"Caboom!" isn't on the label for nothing. CaJohn's award-winning Picante Sauce X-Hot makes an immediate and intense explosion of heat in your mouth. Want to scale back on the fire? Try the black bean and corn salsa, roasted garlic salsa or any number of CaJohn's other hot sauces, marinades, spices or rubs.

It looks like whiskey. It tastes like whiskey. But it's beer! Rockmill's Cask Aged Tripel tastes like a much stronger spirit since it's been aged in Middle West Spirits' whiskey barrels. The flavorful beer, with notes of Ohio winter wheat, can be savored at Rockmill Tavern in Columbus' Brewery District or the taproom in Lancaster.

The New York Times called it the "official drink of the nutcracker." There's that same warm holiday glow when you savor Nocino, a black walnut liqueur made with nuts marinated in vodka with cinnamon, citrus peel and sugar thrown in. The recipe has been passed down through the family, so it's like sharing in a family secret!

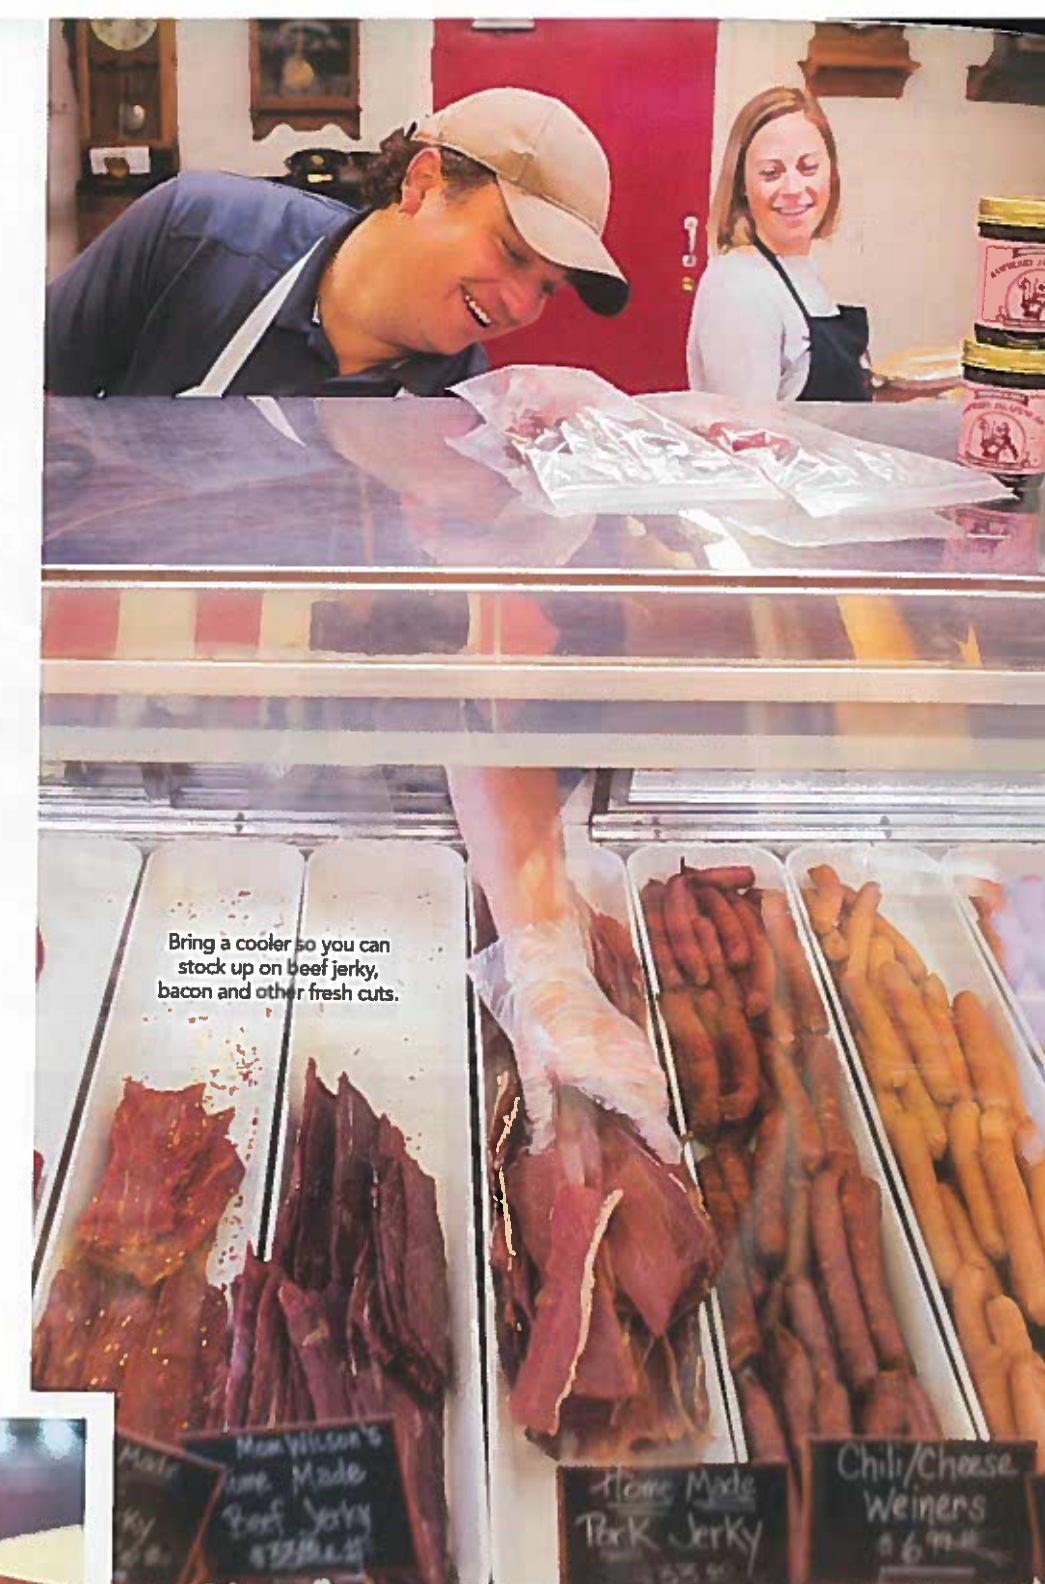

Krema puts its own spin on traditional buckeye candies made of peanut butter and chocolate. Its Buckeye Crunch takes caramel popcorn, mixes it with house-made peanut butter, then drizzles chocolate over top. As it says on the bag: "One bite and this crunch will make you smile!"

Take milk from cows who spend many happy hours in the pastures of northern Ohio and throw in Ohio sourced fruits and flavors in imaginatively blended concoctions, and you've got the recipe for Columbus-based Jeni's splendid array of flavors, like Middle West Whiskey & Pecans. It's heaven in a cone.

Where's THE Bacon? Follow THE Signs

First you see the series of signs along U.S. Rte. 23 north of Delaware with catchy slogans like "Put R Skill In Your Skillet" and "No Fatty In The Patty." Then you see the business itself — Mom Wilson's Country Sausage Mart, now in its third generation of family ownership. Here's what second-generation proprietors Sue Wilson Snavley and Denny Snavley and their son and daughter-in-law, Sam and Jillian Snavley, want you to know about their establishment:

MOM WILSON'S COUNTRY SAUSAGE MART: LAURA WATLINO BLAKE

What makes Mom Wilson's a special place?
Our recipes have been handed down from generation to generation. We use recipes like your grandma made — and ours, too!

What do you want your customers to experience?
We want them to feel like family friends who've stopped by for a visit. We want them to come back — because they want to.

What are your specialties?
We're known for our smoked pork products like sausage and bacon, but big sellers lately are our snack products like beef jerky and cracker sausage.

What are your personal culinary favorites across Ohio?
We love Andrew's Pastries in Marion for doughnuts and strawberry pie, and G&R Tavern in Waldo for fried bologna sandwiches.

for going off
the beaten path.

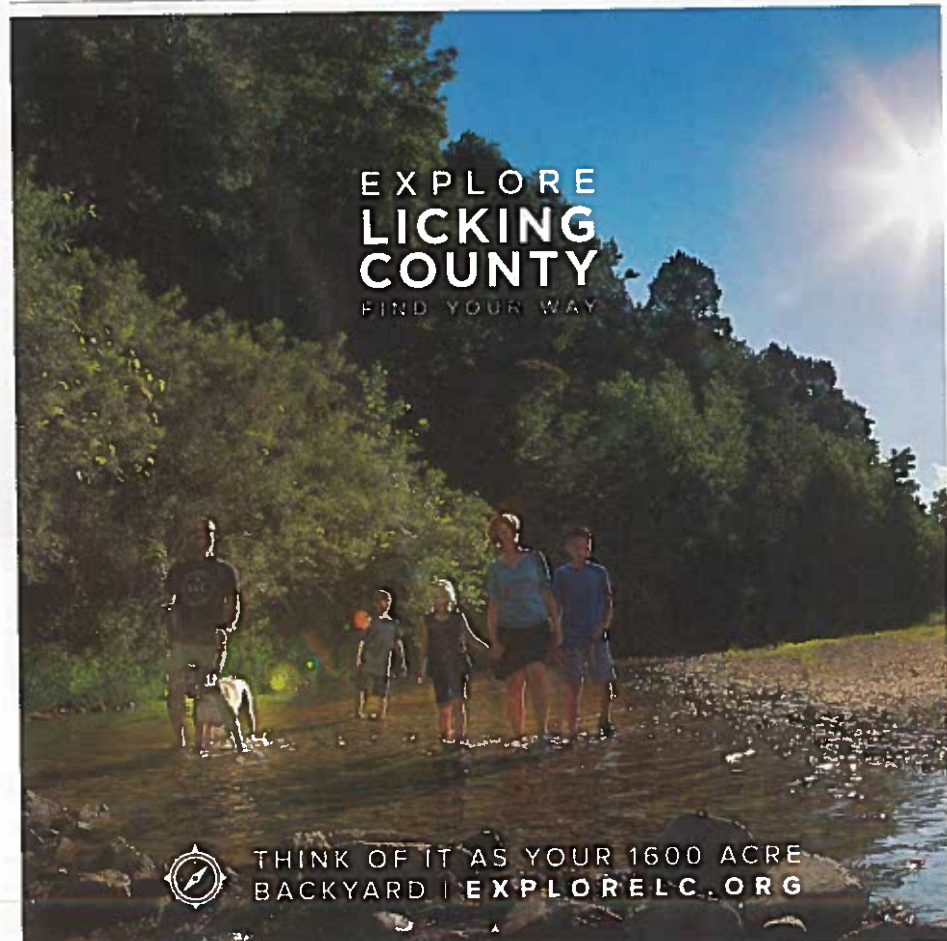

Leon's Garage: The car lift repurposed as a table is testament that this Marysville bar and restaurant was once indeed an auto repair shop. Its specialty is uncommonly good pulled pork and smoked brisket hand rubbed with the proprietor's secret seasoning and smoked for more than 13 hours. Be sure to check out the smoke ring on the meat!

Basi Italia: Travel down a brick alley among the homes in Columbus' Victorian Village to find Basi Italia's intimate dining room. It seats only 30-some people and is invariably filled with folks clamoring for ever-changing Italian-based dishes like baked ricotta gnocchi and Parmesan crème brûlée. The garden-like outdoor patio is one of the city's most secluded places.

Knotty Pine Brewing: With a friendly wait staff and — surprise! — knotty pine décor, this brewpub in the quiet Grandview neighborhood of Columbus serves its own house brews and tasty American fare. The homemade ice cream, made weekly, could be anything from mint chocolate to blueberry cheesecake complete with crust and berries.

Relax on the patio at Basi Italia and feast on well-crafted dishes like the mustard-crust golden trout.

Coffee & Pastry

Paired together they create amazingly tasty memories.

Roosevelt
Coffeehouse

Drink good coffee to help good causes. Savor your cup knowing a portion of the proceeds at this Columbus shop goes toward fighting hunger, unclean water and human trafficking.

TREATS

Dough Mama

Keep your eye on the pie at Dough Mama, a Clintonville bakery and café known for its desserts. Flavors include maple bourbon pecan, lemon lavender and the honey apple, all with thick homemade crusts.

The Alcove

Decadent desserts at this long-time Mount Vernon restaurant include Maureen's Apple Crisp with a substantially thick crumb topping and a scoop of Velvet Ice Cream, a local favorite.

Fox in the Snow

The pecan sticky bun at this Columbus bakery is sticky indeed — the icing practically oozes right off of it. The fragrant bakery is also known for its cinnamon rolls, with icing that looks like it's been ladled on.

Our CupCakery

Belly up to the cupcake bar at Our CupCakery in Dublin. Choose your own flavors not only of the cupcake, but also the filling and frosting.

BREWS

Cafe Brioso

Made-from-scratch chai is just one of the ways Café Brioso attracts repeat visitors. This bustling downtown Columbus coffeehouse uses milk from Ohio cows in its swirled lattes with Ohio honey.

Sames + Cook

Smell the fresh roasted beans in a 19th-century hardware store complete with tin ceilings in Mount Gilead. Beans are roasted on site, making 23 varieties of flavored coffee and kid-friendly drinks.

Fresh Start Cafe
and Bakery

Extremely friendly service prevails at this downtown Delaware establishment known for its artisan espresso drinks, served both hot and on ice.

the INN crowd

Sleep inside or out at Orchard House B&B, an 1850s farmhouse near Granville blending contemporary furnishings and artwork with antiques from around the world. Pick one of the cozy rooms inside the residence, or opt for a "glamping" experience in the great outdoors. A large, yurt-like tent is set up adjacent to a peaceful grove of pine trees, complete with a queen bed and down comforter, and yes, electricity! Wake up to decadent, gourmet breakfasts using fresh ingredients from owners Dean Lowry and Jodi Melfi's farm and orchard.

Sit on the porch swing and enjoy the solitude at Escape Route 508, a bed and breakfast outside West Liberty. The rustic décor includes Amish-made beams, hand-hewn logs and cabinets from an old-time general store. Visit "The Lego Loft" to pass the time and bring back childhood building memories.

Hosts Rick and Julie Hiding place special emphasis on their sumptuous breakfasts made in a spacious kitchen that even restaurant owners would envy. A key ingredient is their honey, made from the hives out back.

park it!

Ohio's state parks keep getting better and better. Bring Fido to the updated dog park in Delaware's Alum Creek State Park, where you'll also find new camper cabins and a renovated marina and beach house. Dive in the new pool at Indian Lake State Park in Lakeview, just one of the campground improvements.

Happy camper

Want ripe strawberries to nibble on while you camp? How about fresh eggs for breakfast? Pick your own seasonal fruits and vegetables, gather eggs and even pluck fresh flowers as part of the back-to-nature experience at Grins & Pickin's Campfarm (LEFT) in Marengo. With 34 acres of hiking trails and a butterfly garden, there are plenty of farm-fresh camping experiences to bring your family close.
